FROM OUR TRAVELING CORRESPONDENT.

RUBY CITY, July 12, 1865.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

The weather here has suddenly become cool and delightful, very little reminding one of mid-summer. It is pleasant to tramp upon the mountains under such circumstances, and I imagine that the cool breeze now stirring inspires the army of prospectors who form the center and hover on the flanks of Owyhee—all hoping and hunting for something to turn up—with renewed ardor. I have abandoned quartz in all its varieties for a few days past and have devoted myself to human nature as it promiscuously exists hereabouts. During the last few days, I have seen about forty heavy teams enter and pass through here going out empty soon after, and my mind has been troubled to imagine what inducement there is here for trade. The amount of gold dug here is inconsiderable, the amount brought here is next to nothing, and where the grand cash comes from that satisfies the seller, I can't for the life of me imagine. I sit in the porch of the Idaho Hotel where I am comfortably made at home for the reasonable sum of twenty dollars per week, and let my mind speculate upon the wealth that lies around me in the mountains, but which unfortunately doesn't "lie around loose" to be very easily appropriated. These rugged peaks contain millions that will be exhumed in time and will help the world to gold and silver to use and to squander. Forbidding as they are bare, desolate and rude, still the veins of wealth that lie in them, shall suffice to feed the main arteries of trade for centuries to come. All that is very pretty in speculation, and I must confess that I watch with interest the pounding stamps of the Morning Star Mill, as the commencement of great things, and the noisy machinery seems to prophecy of the future very much as I do. That same mill is all that keeps up the reputation of Owyhee so far, for by its continual hammering and pounding the stubborn rock has been reduced to powder and made to yield its precious contents to the demand of man. Two thousand tons of Oro Fino rock have been crushed with such profit that the mine has paid for its own development and repaid the cost of the mill, with cash on hand besides. This showing suffices to prove the wealth of Owyhee, especially when we are assured that the Morning Star ledge is richer still, and that many other ledges are, though but partially developed, supposed to be little behind either. Of course every man thinks his "feet" the richest in camp, and while he runs on "jaw bone," as they say here, which means that he demands credit instead of dealing on a cash basis, he considers himself a millionaire with unlimited faith in Owyhee, and as to his own share in its future. There is a cominality about it that almost compensates for the discomforts of mountain life. You hear every day somebody assert that something huge has just been struck, generally equal to the Morning Star, for human exaggeration does not exceed that belief, at least in this camp. Placer mining affords material for thousand, of lies, but quartz miners can tell just as many and ever so much huger ones. Placer mining has a periodical "clean up" and a showing as frequently of profits to date, but quartz mining co[illegible] with prospecting, and continues in a long drawn out prospective. Distance lends enchantment to the view quite as much in Owyhee as any other part of this speculative world.

Sundry and divers merchants who have done a great traffic here, have balanced accounts by the aid of the Sheriff. Sundry and divers charges have they left against [illegible] individuals to console them for all their misfortunes. They have fed the hungry and clothed naked; but plenty as "feet" are, their customers couldn't foot the bill. The angel of hope hovers over Jordan creek and sustains her votaries, who often, unmindful of her native charms, stimulate their faith by libations, generally of indifferent whisky. Now if hope took the form of labor, it would amount the sooner to realization; but the matter is that they all prospect for other ledges instead of developing those they have and so rendering them valuable and salable.

A TOUCH OF LAW.

During the late session of the District Court there was a failure to elicit anything as interesting as happened the other day in a suit before the Justice's Court, all relating to a cow bell. The plaintiff had a cow to whose neck was attached a full toned bell. By this he traced and found her; but one morning the bell was not heard, the cow had strayed and the complainant set forth that days had been spent in search of her. Now that same cow had a fancy to spend her nights near the cabin of defendants, serenading them through the long night watches with the uninterrupted "tintinnabulations of the bell, bell, bell." However much this may have pleased, at first, defendant at length tired of it, and one night he sallied forth in his wrath, dispossessed the family cow of the resonant bell and in the expressive language of the principal witness, "threw it h—wards." The plaintiff charged $50 for the loss of time and lack of milk, making only a small account of the mental anxiety experienced in the affair. The defendant set forth that he had lost sleep, lost flesh, and become utterly bankrupt of patience during the month's serenading that had preceded the bellicose act. His cause was advocated by a distinguished and blarneying son of an Emeralder with such pathos and eloquence, that the jury gave a verdict against plaintiff for $100 as defendant's damages, and also the costs of suit. All owners of cow bells, maliciously disposed, will take warning by this case, which will serve as a precedent. Suit will immediately be brought against a gang of donkeys who make night hideous in the vicinity of where I sleep. They have reduced the vocal music of the race to a science. First comes the soprano, the base chimes in, the tenor follows, and soon the alto joins, and combined guffaw would wake the seven sleepers or "any other man." They make an offset to the banjo and fiddle often heard in a neighboring barn building, poetically called a saloon, where the enchanting hurdy-gurdies and their votaries alternately dance and drink whisky the live long night. I half forgive the donkey race, for I think they undertook to express—though unavailingly—their feelings on one of these occasions, and have continued the subject of discussion every night since. A friend of mine truthfully and graphically expresses it by saying that of late these long eared beasts have not brayed as asses should, but have made asses of themselves by braying as nothing should. Life in a mining camp is always peculiar and often ridiculous. For myself I must confess that a little of it goes a great way with me, and promises to last a long while.

SEVERAL OTHER THINGS.

It is a favorable thing to note that several new mills are being erected on Jordan creek, and we hear of several larger ones on the way. I expect to leave here to return in September, by which time much can be accomplished in mill building as well as quartz mining. A newspaper to be called the Owyhee Times is to commence operations in September. The material is now on the road. A cinnabar mine has been found, eight miles east of here, and the ore which I have seen is quite rich. A tunnel is being run in to pierce the hill that contains it and the prospects are good for its proving of value. By this means, at least the mines of Idaho can be supplied with quicksilver to work them. I am positive in asserting that rich quicksilver ore has been found near here, and that the prospect is good that a rich mine of that ore exists here. In my next I shall be prepared to give an account of the Oro Fino and perhaps Morning Star mine from actual observation. The last named is now partly filled with water in the lower level which will soon be pumped out.

[illegible] PAPER OF THE STATE

[illegible] MORNING, JULY 24, 1865

In or Out of the Union?

[illegible] commencement of the war, hardly any [illegible] has been so fruitful of discussion as that which relates to the position held by the [illegible] States in reference to the [illegible] Government. [illegible] no disputed point [illegible] greater variance of opinion [illegible] that from the date of the withdrawal of the States from the Union, they were sunk to a mere [illegible] torial condition and could only resume the exercise of their former rights by being re-admitted in the manner by which it is provided that new States may come in. This doctrine is still adhered to by considerable numbers chiefly of the more radical sort, who seek to seize the present opportunity to carry out their favorite political ideas. While President Lincoln could not admit that the States were out of the Union, since this would have seemed to imply a right on their part to withdraw, if they only should possess sufficient power to enforce it, he yet considered that the attitude they assumed had put them out of their proper relations with the Union. President Johnson is inclined to regard them as States which have not lost their character and identity by the act of secession. He simplifies the whole matter very much by declaring them never to have been able to dissolve their connection with the Union. Secession was an unlawful act interrupting the relations that existed between the General Government and the States which professed to resume the exercise of the power that according to their interpretation inhered in their own sovereignties. To assume that they were out of the Union would have been a partial admission of the legality of the act of secession. To have admitted the consequences of the passage of these ordinances to be such as their authors claimed for them, would have seemed to give a color of right to the ordinances themselves. If the conclusion were accepted the premises could hardly be discarded.

In the matter of reconstruction, President Johnson is acting on the theory that the seceding States were never, in reality, out of the Union. This explains his course on the vexed question of the right of suffrage in States where loyal Governments are now being established. Some insist that he ought to prescribe who may vote in the elections soon to be ordered in various places. This he would have the right to do if the late rebellious States were now to be considered as mere Territories, but since they are not looked upon in this light, there is no power in the Executive to indicate who may, or who may not vote either in present or future elections, provided the voter be loyal. Each State prescribes what qualifications are necessary for its own electors, and its sole right to do this has never been and cannot be questioned. The Government, of course, may of right so far control the suffrage question as to prevent disloyal parties from voting until they give sufficient guarantees of future fealty to the United States, but beyond this it does not seem as if suffrage can be restricted, limited or extended by any other power than that of the States themselves.

By regarding these States still as members of the Union, the task of restoring them to the exercise of their proper functions, will be less difficult than if it were assumed that they are now in the condition of Territories, thus necessitating the delay incident to reconstruction by a somewhat tedious method. In this way, there is no recognition either of the right or the fact of secession and it is important that there should be none. The Government thus keeps clear of some very difficult questions which would be presented if the other course should be taken. The rebel Vice President thought that the States ought to be allowed to formally annul the several ordinances of secession, but it is clearly needless for them to do so. These acts were unlawful from the first, and while the course to which they led must be abandoned, it is [illegible] for them to be repealed. Their invalidity makes their abrogation wholly unnecessary. As soon as the Southern States become tranquil and their loyal authorities acquire power to execute the laws, their recovery [illegible] Union will be complete, and they will [illegible] same relation to the General Government [illegible] the other States.

Specie Payments.—Judging from the manner in which the matter is discussed in many of the [illegible] papers, an opinion seems to be prevalent that the Government will soon be able to resume the payment of [illegible] in specie. Could this be done at once, or shortly, and carried on without interruption, the best financial results would thereby be attained. Our currency, depreciated at present to three-fourths of its nominal value, would at once rise to par, provided confidence were felt in the ability of the Government to meet all demands that could be made upon it. We fear, however, that this confidence would be wanting. The lack of it would cause all who hold Government paper to [illegible] it, importunately demanding payment, and as a result the specie at the command of the Treasury Department would be wholly [illegible] in a single day. This will appear more than probable when we compare the amount of coin in the country, with the sum of the actual [illegible] of the Government. Of specie, the Government has on hand not more, and probably [illegible] less than $100,000,000. The expenses of the present year will not be less than $[illegible]00,000,000. The interest on the National debt will have to be paid, and this will absorb all the coin which can be derived from customs and other sources. Thus it will be seen that a large balance will be left against the Government, which cannot possibly be paid in coin. While the Government is still a borrower it will be extremely difficult to return to specie payments, or rather to follow in this course after it is once begun.

Of greenbacks there are now not less than $7[illegible]0,000,000 in circulation. An announcement that they would now be redeemed in coin, would place the Government under the necessity of taking them all up in a single week, and this simply for the reason that holders could not believe that with so large an amount of paper money outstanding, it would be possible to maintain specie payments for any length of time. The Government would be compelled to return to the present system at once.

To resume specie payments immediately would be a very desirable consummation but it is a thing which should not be attempted until the financial prospects of the Government are such as will justify its promise to pay in coin all legitimate demands that may be presented. In time, the way will be opened for a resumption of specie payments but we do not see how the present order of things can be changed immediately with any prospect of being able to adhere in all transactions to the hard money system. When the expenses of the Government shall have been reduced far below what they are, of necessity now, and when the volume of our paper currency shall have been considerably diminished the resumption of specie payments will be a transition very easily and readily made.

In Oregon Once More.—Rev. T. H. Pearne arrived on Saturday evening by the Sierra Nevada. Numerous friends met him on the wharf and gladly welcomed him back. Last evening he addressed a large congregation at the M. E. Church. Mr. Pearne is looking very well. After a few weeks stay among us, he will return to the East.

Judah P. Benjamin, the rebel Secretary of State, seems to have escaped to Bermuda.

DATES TO JULY [illegible]

NEW YORK, July 13.—The Times' Mobile special dispatch says: Citizens from the interior [illegible] that the appointment of Parsons as Provisional Governor is entirely satisfactory.

Many crops will be lost for want of negroes to [illegible] the [illegible].

The Washington special dispatch says [illegible] has [illegible] [illegible] the delay in [illegible] Marvin [illegible] the [illegible] in relation to the [illegible] of [illegible] strongly [illegible] the [illegible] differ nearly [illegible] the week [illegible].

A special dispatch says evidences daily reach [illegible] of many rebels who went abroad during the war repenting. They apply to our ministers and consuls for permission to take the oath, which is freely given.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The President to-day pardoned twenty five persons among whom were none of any prominence. A large number of applications for pardon still continue [illegible].

The Postmaster General has notified the Provisional Governors that Postal service will be resumed on all lines of railroads in the South as soon as they respectively certify that the routes are on a proper condition for the purpose.

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—Subscriptions to the [illegible] loan to-day amounted to $1,000,000.

NEW ORLEANS, July 13.—Mexican advices of July 8th have been received. General Lopez and Oliver had returned from the pursuit of the remnants of Negrete's forces which are generally disbanded, being on the Texas side. Cortinas lately captured two steamers.

The Crescent says that Cortinas has effectually established his headquarters on the Texas side. The American authorities had been [illegible] to [illegible] a protest of the Imperial Government [illegible] Cortinas to keep on his own side.

The Times says that the commander of the French fleet had an interview with Gen. Steele on the subject of the steamboats captured, but could not give the result.

News from the interior shows that the Empire is peaceful. Maximilian is striving to improve the country and encourage education.

Guerrillas continue to swarm about Matamoras in great numbers.

California News.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—A memorial numerously signed by ship owners, merchants, underwriters and others will be forwarded to the Navy Yard at Mare Island this afternoon, petitioning commandant McDowell immediately to telegraph to the Department at Washington for permission to charter the new steamer Colorado and fit her out with the proper armament of a few heavy guns, accept the services of a volunteer crew and dispatch her at once on a cruise after the Shenandoah. It is hoped the pirate may be met with before she can leave the Arctic sea. The Colorado is the largest steamer of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company which has recently arrived from the East via Cape Horn. She is very fast and is supposed to be quite able to cope in speed with the Shenandoah.

George Gordon sues the S. F. Sugar Refinery to recover promissory notes in the sum of $1[illegible],840 17, with interest from February 18.

A few days since Sheriff Davis seized a lot of cigars while in possession of the manufacturers, on attachment and in order to retain official possession removed them from the manufactory. After their removal, it was discovered by one of the Federal officials that the cigars had not been legally stamped, and they were claimed as forfeited under section of the act which says that goods removed from the manufactory without being stamped, shall be declared forfeited to the Government. The Federal authorities claim them under this construction of the law, which if sustained, might give rise to many other cases.

Wells, Fargo & Co. will discontinue selling 7 30 notes from and after the 24th of this month. There is still about two millions of dollars of this class of notes in the U. S. Assistant Treasurer's office in this city, and the sales will be continued from that office until the supply is exhausted.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—Advices from Arizona say Gen. Mason has organized a number of Pimos and Maricopas Indians into companies to fight the Apaches. The Yumas refused to join the Apaches in the war against the whites. The Indians are very troublesome and hostilities have commenced. The station at Tubac is to be abandoned.

A Mexican was found tied to a lamp post at the corner of Battery and Pacific streets yesterday morning, supposed to have been robbed.

Edward Durrant, lumber merchant, has been arrested on the charge of destroying his books and invoices, which were demanded as evidence against him by the United States during the recent prosecution for the fraudulent entries of goods at the Custom House.

A meeting of Americans was held at Melbourne before the Mustang sailed from there, to raise funds to charter a swift steamer to follow the [illegible] to sea and attempt her capture without armament but an iron arrangement for [illegible] steam and hot water. Captain Sears of [illegible] offered to run along side the pirate at sea [illegible] by scalding the men at the guns below, and then capture her by boarding. The project fell through for want of funds.

The man Loem who committed suicide here last week, was the husband of the Gipsey woman murdered recently at Red Bluff by a former husband who followed her from Europe. Their four children were left with their brother across the bay.

Maniel Garcia, who has been in the State prison once, was arrested for burglary last night.

The Obstinacy of Treason.—It is well known that at the time of the Hampton Roads Conference the Government would have granted the rebels the most liberal terms if they would have consented to withdraw their absurd claim for "independence." Had they then been willing to acknowledge the supremacy of the United States over our whole territory, other questions could not have failed of an easy and ready adjustment. But to give up the ambitious and wicked idea of "Confederate independence" would not please that most guilty villain Jeff Davis. According to all overtures for peace failed. Jeff Davis alone is responsible for the prolongation of the war beyond that hour. The Southern people then wished to submit, but the vain and obdurate monster whose stony heart the thought of shedding rivers of blood could not move to pity or remorse insisted that the strife should go on. Even if all the people of the South were up to that time, accomplices in his crime, they were thereafter not chargeable in the same degree with Davis, with the reckless effusion of blood. If before that time, as some of his admirers claim, the complicity of six millions of people prevented the great rebellion from being rightly thought a crime, the criminal contumacy of Jeff Davis, and that alone causing as it did all the horrors that followed after the meeting in Hampton Roads, lifts the burden of guilt from the people at large and piles it higher than Pelion and Ossa upon the head of this foulest of all offenders. And yet our instinct of self preservation our hatred of cruelty and our detestation of all that is most abominable are sought to be disarmed by those who ask us to regard with complacent admiration the man whose blood guiltiness has no parallel in the history of the last five centuries. Avaunt ye [illegible] lovers to cruelty, oppression and murder. Let Justice, long reviled, now be restored on her throne and let her mandate be obeyed.

To show that Jeff Davis caused the rejection of the overtures for peace follows this statement from a person in Richmond:

At the time of the Hampton Roads peace conference the first obstacle in the way of adjustment was the introduction by Davis contrary to the wishes of Benjamin the words [illegible] two countries in propositions for negotiations with a view to the restoration of peace. The proposition as originally drawn up by Benjamin, contained the words "with a view to the restoration of peace to our country." But the last word were stricken out by Davis, and the words [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] upon which they were to proceed. The commissioners used all the influence in their power to induce Davis to modify his instructions so as not to [illegible] all hope of adjustment, but in vain. He was influenced by his determination to make independence the indispensable condition of peace by the negotiations.

A learned and enthusiastic orator recently startled his audience by the following stunning sentence: "Sir, let those beware who would trifle with the popular will. In the language of the [illegible] 'Fiat [illegible]' The voice of the people is the voice of God."

[illegible] The [illegible] River [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the Indians, will not [illegible] [illegible] that benevolent [illegible] Poor Indian."

The paper above [illegible] wise on this Vice President [illegible] will probably [illegible] of them.

Vice President [illegible] [illegible] the Indians [illegible] manner [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] plenty more of the same sort. The [illegible] gentleman's sympathy for the [illegible] will probably [illegible] by the poisoned arrow [illegible] of his playful friends before he again takes his seat [illegible] United States Senate.

It is stated that the difficulty between Generals Sheridan and Warren, growing out of the removal from his command by the former at the Battle of Five Forks, has been [illegible] and the two Generals are now [illegible].

MEDICAL NOTICE.

DR. N. DAVIDSOHN,

HAVING SUCCESSFULLY ACTED FOR THE LAST two years as Physician and Surgeon in the U. S. Army, on account of declining health and over exertion and exposure has arrived at the conclusion to retire from the Army and to resume his former position as private practitioner.

He respectfully informs the public of Portland and vicinity of his recent arrival in the city, with the intention of taking up a permanent residence at this place. Dr. D. is an honorary graduate and a practical and experienced Physician, Surgeon and Accoucheur, and in virtue of his theoretical and practical knowledge, claims public trust and confidence. He requests suffering humanity, afflicted with chronic or acute disorders, to apply to him immediately, that the medical skill he professes to possess may be made apparent and beneficial to the public.

The Doctor will confidentially receive and respond to any application forwarded in writing.

His fees are usually moderate, and will be reduced to the purse-length of his patients.

He speaks the English, French and German languages fluently.

Has timber such as [illegible] of trees 300 feet high and [illegible] straight as a sperm candle [illegible] all the year round [illegible] Mr. J. C. [illegible] the way to [illegible] when the party left this city on a visit to Santiam, went with the [illegible] day the party were leaving [illegible] them: "Take my horse back [illegible] and in a private [illegible] that Santiam has [illegible]

A Floating Palace. — The new steamer [illegible] will to-day take her place in the [illegible] between this city and the Cascades of the Columbia. A description of the boat has led us to pronounce her a floating palace. The cabins and the entire work are finished in the neatest and most becoming style [illegible] her appearance and accommodation [illegible] of the day. The after cabin [illegible] hurricane deck, is furnished [illegible] velvet carpeting, damask tapestry [illegible] adornments, heavy plated [illegible] etc. Two state-rooms with [illegible] the berths, handsome mirrors and toilet [illegible] and also a room for general toilet [illegible] saloon. The dining saloon [illegible] furnished much after the [illegible] style [illegible] pated with heavy brussels [illegible] saloon are such that one hundred persons can be comfortably seat to meals at one time. [illegible] to this saloon. Forward is a [illegible] hall [illegible] in circular shape in front [illegible] carpeted and [illegible] On the right and left are officers' quarters, the [illegible] office, Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express room [illegible] On either side, without, is a promenade [illegible] feet in length. These constitute the hurricane-deck [illegible] the entire length of the saloon and hall [illegible] affording light and air. The tables with their finely embroidered broad-cloth coverings, the brilliant [illegible], the bright colored carpeting, and the easy seats, look very inviting to a stranger, especially should he be as weary, upon embarking, as was that correspondent of the Sacramento Union upon arriving in Idaho. The taste of Mr. Dan. Foster has been well displayed in the arrangement of this department. The pilot-house is above the hurricane-deck. The main-deck will be entirely devoted to the stowing of freight [illegible] The capacity of the boat is for carrying of 250 tons [illegible] the hull is a powder-magazine and match safe for the safe [illegible] of combustible materials, being divided by a [illegible] line and perfectly fire-proof. Her machinery is all new, and [illegible] from the Vulcan Works San Francisco. The boiler is 62 inches in diameter, 20 feet [illegible] in length, has 174 tubes, each of 3½ inches diameter. The [illegible] of the engines are 18½ inches in diameter, and have six feet stroke. On the trial trip a few days since the steamer made [illegible] miles an hour, [illegible] The Oneonta [illegible] as follows: Master, Capt. John Wolf; Purser, N. B. Ingalls; Chief Engineer, James Galloway; Chief Officer, William Smith; Pilot, Louis Piper. The eating department is under the [illegible] supervision of Wm. [illegible] and [illegible] will be [illegible] to dispense the liquids and cigars.

The [illegible] Gold and Silver Mining Company. — The [illegible] Sierra Nevada brings on the present trip a quartz mill of 25 stamps, together with all the machinery, steam [illegible], etc., for the above company, a New York corporation organized for working ledges of Idaho, near Idaho City. Mr. Richardson, the Superintendent of the company, accompanies the machinery on its way hither. When this mill was ordered in New York he took the [illegible] of having it made at San Francisco, and forward [illegible] to the mines via Portland and the Columbia river route [illegible] contrary to the advice of parties who had been here, who had traveled the country over, and who were having their [illegible] made at Chicago and St. Louis, to be transported across the country from Nebraska City. It was an independent stand for Mr. R. to take [illegible] having seen the country, and knowing no more [illegible] than he did, but it [illegible] will gain very materially by the course pursued. The four mills coming across the plains cannot by any possibility reach the [illegible] country before the 20th of October, as they left [illegible] City on the 20th of June, and it will require at the least calculation four months for the trip to be effected, and we may say the chances are even against its being done in that time. Mr. Richardson has been detained by [illegible] and telegraphic interruptions, and is now a [illegible] behind in his plans, yet, with all allowances, [illegible] will reach its destination by the first day of September. The original purchase, the cost of transportation [illegible] saved, when taken into account, is largely [illegible] favor. The mill was purchased at San Francisco at a higher rate, considering the difference between [illegible] and cars [illegible], than that paid in Chicago for similar [illegible] but the great weight, ninety tons to each mill [illegible] a difference in favor of the Colonial Company of [illegible] near $15,000 — the cost of transportation being [illegible] per pound in currency from Nebraska City for a distance of 1700 miles, against 10 cents per pound from San Francisco, in coin, with land travel of only [illegible] 300 miles.

The Colfax Party. — The Colfax party returned to this city on Saturday evening, having made an excursion to [illegible] harbor, some distance above Cathlamet on the Columbia river. The trip was made very interesting to the [illegible] gentlemen, through the efforts of the D. B. [illegible] and their return [illegible] with the beauty [illegible] and the importance of the improvements [illegible] been made along this great artery of our internal [illegible]. The party were entertained at the Dalles. [illegible] Mr. Colfax and [illegible] addressed the citizens at some length. The steamer Onyhee was chartered for the trip above Celilo, and before departing a social re-union was had on board. Mr. Colfax stated during the time that the people of Oregon had heard from Governor Brown [illegible] and himself quite frequently, for his part he would like to hear from the people of Oregon before [illegible] the hospitable State, whereupon Governor Gibbs arose, and spoke upon matters of importance to this region of the country. He was followed by Judge Strong, Hon. John R. McBride and Colonel Larrabee [illegible] at the conclusion of Col. L.'s remarks Mr. Colfax replied, and taken all together we have reason to suppose that the interchange of [illegible] on that occasion, on board a fine steamer in these distant waters, will have an effect to [illegible] back to us in material different from words by the [illegible] recognition of our great and growing common [illegible], and the better supplying of her wants in the Councils of the Nation. We feel very grateful for the visit of the Colfax party [illegible] have paid our State. We feel grateful to think that the distinguished gentlemen have been so highly entertained at all points of their travel while here, and we are pleased to receive from them the [illegible] of their good wishes for our prosperity. This morning they leave us by the steamer John H. [illegible] going to Victoria via Monticello and Olympia thence to [illegible], and Eastward via Panama.

The Order of Odd Fellows. — Isaac M. Veitch, Most Worthy Grand Sire of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows of the United States, has issued a proclamation declaring the [illegible] unity of the order, and that there exists no [illegible] to the re-establishment of the fraternal relations [illegible] existed between all the jurisdictions [illegible] to the Grand Lodge of the United States and [illegible] every act or declaration of any kind, if any should have been made, intended to impare the supreme authority of the Grand Lodge of the United States over the whole [illegible] is null and void.

[illegible] Victoria Trade. — Since the sale of the steamer [illegible] Wright for the Russo American Telegraph Expedition [illegible] we have been dependant upon the [illegible] system [illegible] between this port and Victoria, but we are glad to learn that a United States steamer [illegible] for a long time on the coast survey [illegible] run as a packet in this line [illegible] Oregonian will [illegible] her under her maiden name of the Gold Hunter.

The Rainbow. — Again we learn the steam tug [illegible] river [illegible] persons who arrived by steamship last Saturday [illegible] that the Rainbow may be expected [illegible] are watching for her.

Kirby Smith's Farewell Address. — From Kirby Smith's farewell address to his troops it appears that this great General had been [illegible] [illegible] to remain [illegible] Shreveport and [illegible] army to retreat [illegible] Houston [illegible] of the way [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] all in the meantime selling out [illegible] his troops [illegible] the duty that devolves [illegible] [illegible] longer [illegible] that his army failed to imitate his fugacious example [illegible] and with an effort to follow their commander in his retreat towards fields of glory, the soldiers dispersed and went to their homes. Of this the Texan Rebel rust complains most feelingly. Here is his trustful address:

Head Quarters Trans Mississippi Department,
Houston, May 30, 1865.

Soldiers: — The day after I refused the demand of the Federal Government to surrender this Department, I left Shreveport for Houston. [illegible] the Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana troops to follow. My purpose was to concentrate the entire strength of the Department, await negotiations and, if possible, secure terms alike honorable to soldiers and citizens. Failing in this I intended to struggle to the last; and with an army united in purpose, firm in resolve, and battling for the right, I believed God would give us the victory. I reached here to find the Texas troops disbanded and hastening to their homes. They had forsaken their colors and their commanders; had abandoned the cause for which we were struggling, and appropriated the public property to their personal use.

Soldiers, I am left a commander without an army — a general without troops. You have made your choice. It was unwise and unpatriotic, but it is final. I pray you may not live to regret it. The enemy will now possess your country, and dictate his own laws. You have voluntarily destroyed our organizations, and thrown away all means of resistance.

Your present duty is plain. Return to your families. Resume the occupations of peace. Yield obedience to the laws. Labor to restore order. Strive both by counsel and example to give security to life and property. And may God, in his mercy, direct you aright, and heal the wounds of our distracted country.

E. Kirby Smith, General.

The Missouri Constitution. — A few days ago the returns then at hand, justified the belief that the new Constitution of Missouri had been defeated by the people at the polls. This belief has turned out erroneous. Later returns develop unexpected majorities in favor of the measure, and this morning the returns from seventy-nine counties give a majority of over 2,000 in favor of the new Constitution, without the soldiers' vote, which will be nearly unanimous in the same direction. This is a heavy blow at the rebel sympathizers in Missouri, and will render it difficult for a rebel to live here on anything like an equality with loyal men. They are disfranchised for seven years, and cannot maintain an action in a court. The features of the Constitution requiring all property to pay a tax, and requiring public schools to be provided for colored children, will revolutionize the former practices of the State quite as much as the abolition of slavery. The Catholics in St. Louis hold church property valued at about $10,000,000, and all of it will now be subject to tax. It further imposes an oath of fealty on all clergymen officiating in churches in Missouri, and the charge is made that the Catholic priests cannot take this oath, as they have already sworn fealty to the Pope. This may be a slander, but all events, the Catholic influence was arrayed against the Constitution through the canvass. The anti-Constitution men were jubilant for some days, over its supposed defeat, and they are very blue since the fact is ascertained that the Constitution has been adopted. They are "as mad as March hares," to-day, and threaten all sorts of vengeance on all who have brought about the result. — St. Louis Cor. Alta.

A Good Hit at the New York Press. — The Cincinnati Commercial is incensed because the New York papers were jealous concerning its publication, ahead of all other papers of the suppressed testimony taken in the assassination trial in Washington. The New York journals complained that they were cheated, and that the testimony had been given forth in mutilated form, whereupon the Commercial retorts thus:

"New York newspaper enterprise consists almost exclusively in enormous and hideous specials, telegraphed from Washington. Each New York journal has a herd of reporters at Washington, and about eleven o'clock at night they all get drunk and go to work getting up sensation for next morning. They write with great violence for two or three hours, about anything or nothing, and hurry it off by telegraph — a mass of undigested, ungrammatical, incoherent gibberish, over which the miserable night editors sweat and groan through the weary morning hours, trying by multitudinous head lines to make people believe they have wonderful news. Whole pages of special dispatches are gotten up in this style, and no human being can make head or tail of it. This is the sum of New York newspaper enterprise. And these fellows talk of the mutilation of documents! They are the very destroyers of official intelligence, with their abominable massacre, by telegraph, of everything said and done at Washington. The people in the central and dominant parts of the country have to wait until the Commercial is out, before they know what to depend upon."

The Republican Marvel. — "Malakoff" in writing from Paris to the New York Times of the joy which Gen. Sherman's unfortunate mistake gave to the European haters of republics, says:

Their exultation, however, was of short duration. And what produced the most astounding effect on the minds of these revilers of republicanism, and in fact, on all Europeans, was not so much that Sherman should quietly obey the new President, not so much that Grant himself, with his extended powers and great popularity, should never move without consulting the head of State, but that the army of Sherman, the men who were ready to follow their loved chief wherever he led, should not only not revolt, but even disapprove his conduct! There was something in this contrary to all European education and European modes of procedure, and something which suggested that an American army must be composed of different material from other armies, but what that difference was they could not see. It is, in fact, impossible to beat into an European's head the influence of free institutions in shaping men's minds, and in giving them the instinct of self government. They see the fact, and are astounded at it, but they do not comprehend it, because they have no criterion of their own by which to judge it.

"Sozodont" is now attracting very considerable attention, and well it may. The article represented by this musical name, is one of the best preparations for the teeth and gums that has ever been offered to the public.

We have been familiar with its results for some years past, and have never known a case in which its use was not pleasing and highly satisfactory. It polishes the teeth, hardens the gums, and gives a wholesome tone to the mouth and breath. — Providence Daily Press.

Brandreth's Vegetable Pills. This medicine of enduring efficacy is justly prized as a corrector of all disorders of the stomach and bowels, the common symptoms of which are costiveness, spasms, loss of appetite, sick headache, giddiness, sense of bloating after meals, dizziness of the eyes, drowsiness and cramping in the stomach and bowels. These symptoms being suffered to remain, a torpid state of the liver supervenes and all the horrors of dyspepsia are experienced. Every function of the frame is to a great extent prostrated. But a little perseverance in the use of BRANDRETH'S PILLS will even restore the system from this state of misery. Two or three doses will convince the afflicted of their salutary influence. The stomach will readily regain its strength, a healthy action of the liver will soon take place, and instead of listlessness, heat, pain and jaundice, appearance, activity, strength and renewed health will be the blessed result. Brandreth's Pills are sold at 25 cents a box, enveloped in full directions. Purchase none unless my private Government stamp is on the box. See upon it B. Brandreth in white letters.

WISTAR'S BALSAM

—OF—

WILD CHERRY!

HAS BEEN USED FOR NEARLY

HALF A CENTURY,

WITH THE MOST ASTONISHING SUCCESS IN CURING

Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Croup, Liver Complaint, Bronchitis, Difficulty of Breathing, Asthma, and every affection of the

THROAT, LUNGS, AND CHEST,

INCLUDING EVEN

CONSUMPTION.

There is scarcely one individual in the community who wholly escapes, during a season, from some one, however slightly developed, of the above symptoms — a neglect of which might lead to the last named, and most to be dreaded disease in the whole catalogue. The power of "medicinal gum" of the Wild Cherry Tree over this class of complaints is well known; so great is the good it has performed, and so great the popularity it has acquired.

In this preparation, besides the virtues of the Cherry, there are commingled with it other ingredients of like value, thus increasing its value ten fold, and forming a Remedy whose power to soothe, to heal, to relieve, and to cure disease, exists in no other medicine yet discovered. The proprietors [illegible] the preparation of this medicine in all cases of

has induced many physicians of high standing to employ it in their practice, some of whom advise us of the fact under their own signatures. We have space only for the names of a few of these: —

E. B. Fisher, M. D., San Francisco, Cal.
R. Bowman, M. D., Exeter, Me.
Alexander Hatch, M. D., China, Me.
R. Fellows, M. D., Hill, N. H.

W. B. Lynch, M. D., Auburn, N. Y.
Abraham Skillman, M. D., Bound Brook, N. J.
H. D. Martin, M. D., [illegible], Pa.

The proprietors have letters from all classes of our fellow citizens, from the halls of Congress to the humblest cottage, and even from beyond the seas; for the fame and virtue of Wistar's Balsam have extended to the uttermost bounds of the earth, without any effort on our part to introduce it beyond the limits of our own [illegible]

TO CAUTION THE PUBLIC [illegible]

After October 1st, 1863, all genuine WISTAR'S BALSAM of WILD CHERRY for the Pacific Coast will be enclosed in a new wrapper, which will bear the printed names of both Seth W. Fowle & Co., Boston, Mass., and John D. Park, Cincinnati, Ohio, as well as facsimile of the signatures of "I. Butts," "Seth W. Fowle & Park," and "H. Wistar, M. D."

The Field of Gettysburg

[illegible] the correspondent of the [illegible], writing from Gettysburg, furnishes the following impressive description of the field where for three days contending hosts struggled in one of the most terrific battles of modern times.

It is but an approximation to a correct conception of the situation of the battlefield of Gettysburg on which the great and last fight took place, [illegible] north and south of the town, [illegible] hundred yards from its outskirts, [illegible] elevation, a gentle rise of upper [illegible] and shaped like a horseshoe, with its toe towards Gettysburg, and its sides [illegible] steep [illegible] southward [illegible] one side and two miles on the other. This position [illegible] at the toe [illegible] position was [illegible] through [illegible] by Ewell's corps [illegible] flows through what was [illegible] it lay Slocum's Twelfth Corps, the right resting on Wolf Hill, on the east side of the creek. I followed the line about [illegible] and leaving the fork of the [illegible] more pikes when descend into the town [illegible] Cemetery Hill where [illegible] continuation of the ridge, higher, if possible, than that at the toe of our horseshoe. Here are thick [illegible] with [illegible] slopes toward the roads which skirt its rear and open spaces, also sloping [illegible] westward along which [illegible] right to left runs the Emmittsburg road. Here was posted Hancock's Second Corps and [illegible] up to something like a level, where Sedgwick's Sixth Corps continued the line to the left [illegible] where Lee spied our weak [illegible] of the college was the famous attack of Pickett's division of A. P. Hill's corps on the 3d of July. Here they thought were posted the Pennsylvania militia, and here they shrank back astounded, exclaiming in surprise, "the Army of the Potomac!" It was here that we took thirty five hundred prisoners and fifteen stands of colors; and where the rout was so utter that a rebel officer who fell wounded in the Emmittsburg road, said that when he lifted his head, after a moment's pause in pain, he thought that the whole division had disappeared as if blown away by the wind. Continuing now to the left, still we find our line ascending rocky and woody, reaching Little Round Top, a precipitous eminence, several hundred feet above the valley, across which the rebel charge just referred to was made and dotted by a few low trees. This hill was held by the Fifth Corps (Sykes'), who made it a complete Gibralter, piling up the huge masses of stone in a net work of defenses, from whence our sharpshooters picked off every skirmisher who [illegible] his head in the vale below. Here, among the rocks, the United States Regular artillery planted their batteries, brought up from the rear of the hill with great labor, and here, again and again the rebels assaulted our left, darting from cover to cover in the broken valley below, charging at times in solid columns, and gaining the crest in single squads once or twice, but always driven back. On the left is Round Top, proper, a sugar loaf hill, higher than Little Round Top and densely wooded. This formed the extreme left of our line, and was held by some of Sykes' infantry, Kilpatrick's cavalry hanging on that flank and Buford's men being on the other flank. Between the two Round Tops is a ragged ravine, a rough wilderness of huge rocks piled up in uncouth wildness; this is "Devil's Den," and the sounds of hell echoed there when McLaw's division of Longstreet's corps attempted to pierce our line by passing by that ravine. They were dreadfully cut up by a cross fire on either Round Top, and for weeks thereafter, the stench from putrefying bodies of dead rebels, lying on those rocks was something dreadful. Devil's Den is quiet enough now, and when I looked over into it yesterday a striped squirrel was running blithely over the ledges, flecked with the quivering shadows of the young birches.

The reader should not fail to see (in his mind's eye) that due west from Little Round Top, on the Emmittsburg road, is a gentle rise in the middle of the vale, on which is Sherfy's peach orchard. This was where Sickles, tempted by a gentle eminence on which to post his men, left his proper place north of Little Round Top, where he had the open valley before him, and took up a position in the opening, with his left wing resting on a wood, through which Longstreet was able to advance and enfilade him, crushing in his lines with terrible slaughter, and driving him back to his proper position, between Sedgwick and Sykes at the depression in our line where the Tarrytown road passed in the rear. From Meade's official censure of Sickles' brave but rash conduct has arisen the misunderstanding and ill-feeling which has spread from these two Generals to many who were subordinate in the fight of Gettysburg.

Standing now on Cemetery Hill, we can see the admirable defensive position which our forces occupied when the decisive battle was fought on the 3d of July. We occupied the horseshoe so often spoken of, the heels thereof being so nearly bent back that whole brigades (even divisions) were transferred from point to point of the outer line as circumstances demanded, easily passing from one place to another on the inner lines of our sharp [illegible]. Meade's headquarters were at a little whitewashed cottage, behind the hill where the [illegible] corps was posted, on the Taneytown road, and with easy communication with every part of our line by the rear. Here the newspaper men were posted, and here, during that terrible artillery attack, when two hundred guns were concentrated on our left center, [illegible] that force [illegible] of shrieking shot and shell [illegible] like a [illegible] of grass and plowed the earth as with a share. Ascending [illegible] Taneytown road we reach the point [illegible] the [illegible] westward the [illegible] slopes, covered with woods, which stretch around the town, almost exactly conforming in general direction to the configuration of the Union lines, but separated therefrom by a sweeping valley, open in every part. Across the valley and over the heads of the terrified villagers howled and shrieked shot, shell, shrapnel and every sort of devilish missile for three mortal days; over that valley of death often moved the desperate columns of foes, only to be cut down like grass before the deadly rain of our artillery and musketry. The face of the country is furrowed with their nameless graves, and where they fell upon cultivated fields, their moldy bones will occasionally come to the surface. On our right flank, where the Twelfth Corps held Culp's Hill against the Louisiana Tigers, the trees are killed by the leaden rain of our musket balls, and in the leafy glades below sleep thousands of poor rebels whose dashing bravery was unavailing against the cool courage and impregnability of our own men. They formed in mass, and poured up the right flank of Cemetery Hill, where we now see the rude earthworks which defended Steinwehr's artillery, only to be mowed down in heaps, finally retiring, declaring "that all hell couldn't take that place." In this valley, on the left in front of Hancock's corps were killed the rebel Generals Armistead and Garnett; here, too, in the Emmittsburg road, was wounded South Carolina Pettigrew, whom I afterwards saw lying, mortally wounded, at Falling Waters, further down the road nearer to our line, fell Barksdale, swearing and fighting like mad at the head of his brigade in McGraw's division of Longstreet's corps.

The rebels were forced to choose their battle ground, but they were satisfied with it until it was too late. Meade, coming up, had chosen his field near Westminster, but events decided otherwise before he could bring up his army, and the fight came off on a field which, to use the words of an old soldier, was one of the grandest places to kill men in that the world anywhere has seen. The whole story is told when I say that our lines measured on the crests of the hill which we occupied, are three miles and a half, all in a semicircle, while Lee's lines were over six miles in length, and were stretched out in a great circumflex, outside of the scene of battle.

The Circassian Slave Trade.—A Constantinople letter to a London paper contains the following about the slave trade:

"Notwithstanding the recent nominal abolition of the trade in Circassian slaves, the traffic is still vigorously carried on. Two days ago, however, a batch of seventy seven girls on the eve of embarking in the [illegible] for Alexandria, were stopped and brought before the Commissioner recently named to inquire into and put a stop to the trade. Their owner produced a regular permit for the lot, signed by the Chief of the old [illegible] which formerly controlled this traffic, and which, strangely enough, is still in technical existence; but notwithstanding this license, the dealer himself was sent to prison and the girls placed in the Circassian khan or refuge, which has been appropriated to these immigrants for some months past. A number of other arrests have also been made—of thirteen dealers in all—clearly showing that while official credit has long been taken for the abolition of this nefarious branch of commerce, it has up to the present, thriven nearly as briskly as at any time since the piping days of Sultan Mahmoud, when the houris of every age and color were openly exposed for sale in their special bazaar in Stamboul. The recent Circassian immigration has been admirably improved by both traders and purchasers, and at [illegible], Trebizond, Varna and other points of debarkation boys and girls of all ages have been bought [illegible] by the score at long prices. In justice to the Porte, however, it should be said that it has strictly forbidden the trade, but that local officials and other functionaries have winked at it and profited accordingly."

[illegible] On Sunday night between 10 and 11 o'clock a passenger named Timothy [illegible] fell from the gangway plank of the steamer [illegible] [illegible]. His body was subsequently recovered, and on his person was found about $300 in Messrs. Wells, Fargo & Co.'s [illegible] with $6 and a half [illegible]. An inquest was held in the afternoon by Coroner Dickson and from the meager evidence that could [illegible] the jury returned an open verdict. We understand however that material witnesses left previous to the inquiry by the mail steamer. It is said that [illegible] was smoking his pipe on the rail and the night watchman [illegible] what to smoke. [illegible] with reluctance and [illegible] the plank when he fell [illegible]. Assistance was at once rendered [illegible] partly out of the water but unfortunately [illegible]. The deceased was a native of [illegible] Mass., and was on his way from Portland to San Francisco. [illegible] The funeral will take place [illegible] Fourth street this afternoon at 2 o'clock.—[illegible]

An Affirmative Youth.—"What thou hast to do, do it with all thy might," said a clergyman to his son one day.

"So I did this morning," replied Bill, with an enthusiastic gleam in his eye.

"Ah! what was it, my darling?" and the father's fingers ran through his offspring's curls.

"Why, I thrashed Jack Edwards till he yelled like mad."

Papa looked unhappy while he explained that the precept did not apply in a case like that, and concluded mildly with—"You should not have done that, my child."

"Then he would have thrashed me!" retorted Bill.

"Better," expostulated his sire, "to have [illegible] from the wrath to come."

"Yes," urged Bill, by way of a final clincher, "but Jack can run twice as fast as I can."

The good man sighed, went to his study, took up a pen and endeavored to compose himself and a sermon reconciling practice with precept.

A North Carolina Woman's Mistake.—The Raleigh Progress of June 7th says:

At No. [illegible] Fayetteville street, where everybody goes to purchase goods, an incident occurred a few days since worthy of record. An old lady, evidently from the rural districts, entered the store accompanied by her daughter. After taking a few steps she startled the large crowd of purchasers at the counter with the exclamation, "Oh Betsy! Betsy—my own dear Betsy!" and rushed with outstretched arms, as if intending to embrace some one, against the large mirror in the back end of the room. Her daughter in tones not the most dulcet cried out, "Mother, you durned fool, that's yourself, taint aunt Betsy!" The old lady, after looking behind the glass, under the counter and all about the store, muttering all the while her wonderment at Betsy's disappearance, left the store without buying a cent's worth, although everything that a lady wants is to be found there.

Eloquent.—United States.—Our country stands to-day among the nations of the earth without a rival. In some respects this might not be true, but in the scope of her territory and the rapidity of its acquisition, in the perfection of her arts and the glory of her arms, in the strength of her laws and the wisdom of her policy, in the reclamation of the wastes of nature from the barrenness of barbaric solitudes to the hum of industry and the din of progress, and above all in the moral, social, and intellectual elevation in the scale of nations, the United States of America stand unparalleled by any nationality that has ever graced or adorned the earth from the misty morning of the world's historic dawn to the splendors of the present hour of the world's civilization.—Boston Times.

To the Pope Direct.—The Roman Catholic Bishop of Dubuque, Iowa, gives the following succinct account of a recent contemptible act from which he is suffering:

On last Wednesday morning, about 3 o'clock, my stable, coach house, splendid horses, grain, etc., were all burned down by the foul hand of some Southern secesh, because I had, on last Sunday, strongly condemned the assassination of our late lamented and honored President. I forgive them, and may God forgive them. Loss about $4,000."

Jeff Davis, in a speech delivered by him in 1848, made a suggestive remark, which may give a hint to the government how to dispose of him. He said: "When Dr. Johnson heard that a man whose life had been a course of villainy had committed suicide by hanging himself, he replied, 'It was right that a life which had been uniformly oblique should be terminated by a perpendicular.'"

Of all the governments in the world there is only one which has entered into a direct correspondence with the rebel Confederacy, and which has given to Jefferson Davis the title of "most illustrious President." This only government is that of the Pope.

It is suggested that if all other charges against Jeff Davis fail, he can be tried as a suspicious [illegible] found wearing female apparel. Six months in the work house would be a proper penalty for this offense against good morals.

LILLIE'S LOCK OPENED
In One Minute.

NEW YORK, September 2, 1864.
F. TILLMAN, Esq., 318 Battery street,
Between Commercial and Clay, San Francisco
DEAR SIR: WE NOTICE AN ADVERTISEMENT in your daily papers respecting the security of [illegible] We are aware that you well understand this lock, and of course will not allow yourself to be annoyed by such representations. We have just seen a man at our office [illegible] opened one of Lillie's best safe locks, after it had been locked and the combination turned on

By One Blow of the Hammer

Against the knob on the outside, and thereby breaking the [illegible] inside.
The whole time occupied in opening the lock was about ONE MINUTE. We send you this lock that your friends may not be deceived by false representations, etc.
Respectfully, etc.
A. E. TILTON,
WM. McFARLAND.

Any parties desirous of seeing the above mentioned lock [illegible] insecurity and [illegible] mode of opening the same can call at 318 Battery Street, San Francisco.

COLCHESTER, March 26, 1864.
Messrs. TILTON & McFARLAND,
Safe Manufacturers, Boston, Mass.
Gentlemen: [illegible] representations made by Mr. Lillie, I was induced to purchase one of his

So Called "Fire Proof Safes."

On the 18th of February last a fire occurred in our block which destroyed a number of buildings, and our own with the rest. We trusted our books, papers and all in the safe. After the fire the so called safe was taken from the ruins, and on opening it we found that Everything had been Destroyed.

We sent the safe with what is left of the papers [illegible] Messrs. McKenzie & Harris just opening their safe (TILTON & McFARLAND'S make) and its contents were found to be In Perfect Condition.

This led us to further investigation, and we found to our astonishment that from the large amount of valuables contained in Messrs. McK. & H.'s cellar [illegible] lard, pork, etc., their safe was subjected to a much greater heat than that of our own, we being in the clothing business and had but little in the cellar. There was another of Lillie's safes here subjected to the same fire, faring however no better than ours.
Very respectfully,
Your [illegible] servants,
(Signed) GEO. T. CHEPBORO & CO.

TILTON & M'FARLAND'S
SAFE,
The Only Protection
Against Fire and Burglars
For the last Fifteen Years

This Safe has been well known in California and the Eastern States. They have stood all the fires on the Pacific Coast, and we can point with satisfaction to the record that out of one of our Safes by means of Burglars. Their fire and burglar proof qualities are so well known that they need no further recommendation.

A good assortment of Tilton & McFarland's Fire and Burglar Proof Safes to be had at 318 Battery Street, San Francisco.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.
NEW REMEDIES! NEW REMEDIES!
Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

617 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned to this State after an absence of one year, during which time he has visited all the principal hospitals of Europe, among them those of Dublin, London and Paris. The following celebrated hospitals of London are among those visited by the Doctor: Guy's, High street, Borough; St. Bartholomew's, Smithfield; St. Mary's, Camb. Place, Paddington, Harrow road; St. Luke's, Old street; University, Gower street; Westminster, Broad Sanctuary, Charring Cross, Agar street, Strand; London, Whitechapel road; Royal Free, Gray's Inn road; King's College, Portugal street.

DOCTOR GIBBON has also visited Doctors Acton of London, Parker of Birmingham, England, and Ricord of Paris, who are considered the best physicians and surgeons in the world, and whose authority is acknowledged to be the highest in the treatment of Sexual Diseases.

DOCTOR GIBBON has obtained from them their new mode of treatment which cannot be surpassed.

DOCTOR GIBBON has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with new facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies, see that they are cured for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, Consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 617 Kearney street, near Commercial, San Francisco, [illegible] or Office Box 25. Consultation FREE.

Prevention Better than Cure.

The newly invented Patent French Safe, a sure Preventive against Diseases and Pregnancy, sent by mail for $2. Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 617 Kearney St., near Commercial, San Francisco. Postoffice Box 252.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders [illegible] [illegible] Doctor Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his Medical Institute [illegible] Consultations FREE. m18tf
